Company profile:

Duas Rodas Industrial, with its headquarters in Jaraguá do Sul, Brazil, is one of the largest Latin American manufacturers of raw materials for the food industry. Duas Rodas has two production plants in Brazil, one in Chile and one in Argentina. Duas Rodas origins were in flavours, and they are now one of the leading flavour and compounding manufacturers delivering these products to the South American food and beverage industry. They also produce tropical functional plant extracts, dehydrated fruit powders & flakes, plus banana puree & pieces. Duas Rodas' goal is to supply ingredients which retain the nutritional properties of the original fruits and vegetables, conserving their natural taste. The line of dehydrated fruits offers different options of granulometry by applying different drying processes. Acerola in powder form is a good example, where the Natural Vitamin C from the fruit is conserved in the final product. Also offered in Organic Quality.

Duas Rodas has established world leadership in their business due to their creativity, art of development and 80 years of experience, combined with the application of high technology and quality. Duas Rodas is also growing selective organic products in their own organic plantations, following the European Community regulations.
